Those who had expected that the Mexicans would convert their own city into a battlefield or would subject it to rioting and looting have been compelled to admit their mistake. The entrance of the 4,000 men now garriwas Gen. Funston's withdrawal. The withdrawal was accomplished without hitches and little ceremony marked the departure, but Gen. It is believed that Gen. Carranza will move soon to establish headquarters here. On this point there is uncertainty, not even Minister of Foreign Affairs Fabela, who accompanied Gen. Aguilar into Vera Cruz, being well informed, apparently.

The British and French ambassadors made no request that the department take detion in the matter, as they had been advised that American consular representatives would exercise their good offices in behalf of all foreign-crisin Mexico.

It. Jusserand also inquired what disposition had been made of the $1,000,000 in customs duties collected by the American forces which evacuated Vera Cruz, being well informed, apparently.

Mexican flags are flying over all the public buildings and the various goverament officials named by the constitutionalists have begun their labors. More troops entered the city today, but when Gen. Carranza will arrive is not yet known.

The commercial telegraph wires connecting Vera Cruz with Mexico City have not yet been repaired. John R. Silliman, the personal agent of President Wilson in Mexico City, is making use of the private wires under military control for the transmission of messages from the capital to Vera Cruz. Here his communications are relayed to the United States by cable. The company's linemen are at work repairing the break, but it does not appear likely that ordinary communication with Mexico City will be reestablished for some time to come.

Little Enthusiasm Shown.

Little enthusiasm was displayed on the entrance of the native forces into Vera Cruz. Stores were closed throughout the city, giving it anything but a out the city, giving it anything but a holiday aspect, and almost all the people discreetly remained within doors. The public was given an opportunity to see and hear Aguilar shortly after his arrival. The general, Foreign Minister Fabela and Luis Sanchez Ponton, former governor of the federal district, made short speeches from the balcony of the municipal palace.

Gen. Aguilar merely called upon the people to assist him in the maintenance of order, adding that he was not an adherent of Gen. Villa or Gen. Carranza so much as he was a Mexican.

Senor Fabela was more outspoken. He unreservedly praised Gen. Carranza and denounced Gen. Villa as a traitor, calling upon the audlence in the plaza beneath to voice their allegiance to Gen. Carranza in order that he might know how the people of Vera Cruz felt. Loud shouts of "Viva Carranza." were the answer. Referring to those Mexicans who had been employed by the American forces of occupation, Senor Fabela said that while he had been compelled to promise guarantees to bring about the withdrawal of the Americans, it must be understood that those Mexicans could not be considered patriotic sons of their country, and that none of them could serve under him.

Gen. Aguilar personally raised the Mexican flag over the municipal palace at 6 o'clock last night. A company of infantry was drawn up in front of the building during the ceremony. A

Gen. Aguilar, in a statement relative to the evacuation, said:

VERA CRUZ. November 24.—Gen. Candido Aguilar, who succeeded Brig. Chen. Frederick Funston yesterday as military governor of Vera Cruz, did not mince words when, through his chief of police, Theodore Frezieres, he told the residents of this city that any disturbance of the peace, whether it be picking pockets or any of the graver crimes, such as sacking, would result in the execution of the offending

Holding rooms in two hotels ready to make a quick change should he care for either of the establishments. They are raidely losing their nervousness, however, more so, perhaps, than a great number of the native residents who have viewed Gen. Aguilar's orderly entrance with considerable skepticism, believing that fighting or looting or both have been merely deferred.

Rear Admiral McLean has been keenly interested in the day's developments. There are here only the United States collier Nereus and the battleships Minnesota and Texas, but there are two other United States warships along the gulf coast. The gunboar Petrel, which is now at Progrese, has been ordered to Tampico, although no information has been received here to indicate that an immediate attack on that place may be expected. In order not to excite possible animosity on the part of the Mexicans Pear Admiral McLean will not permit the saliors or officers under his command shore leave for a few days, and then it is not likely that they will come ashore in uniform.

This flat statement caused W. W. Canada, the American consul, to call at the pelce station, where is cold the Frezieres that many Americans had deposited their arms with him. The consul was told that Gen. Aguilar had no intention of demanding them and, in fact, expected the consult to use his difference in holding the arms of any Americans in holding the decks of the transports with field the saloons closed, in accordance with the order issued by Gen. Funston Sunday. This was heartily approved, and under a new order issued yesterday the saloons will remain closed "until further orders." Restaurants and hotels are allowed to sell wine and beer with meals only and at the time that meals usually are eated.

Gen. Funston had been accomplished without any disturbance. The fact that American occupation of the Mexican port had been ended with no untoward incident bears out predictions of officials here.

They were pleased also over assurances given by Gen. Aguilar, the new milltary governor of Vera Cruz to assist him in the maintenance of order. The general assures them of his intention to turnish guarantees of safety "to all residents, Mexicans and foreigners, of all classes, even to those opposed to the cause."
